INSURANCE DEPARTMENT, BOSTON, July 20, 1914.

To the General Court of Massachusetts.

Herewith is submitted Part II. of the fifty-ninth annual report of the Massachusetts Insurance Department. Information is contained herein concerning all classes of insurance, except fire and marine, which may be transacted in this Commonwealth. In general it presents the Insurance Commissioner's comments on workmen's compensation insurance, statistical tables relating to insurance companies, receivers' reports, the acts of the Legislature of 1914 relating to the classes of insurance covered by this volume, abstracts of statements showing the financial condition of insurance companies and the insurance transactions of savings banks.

The companies of the character included in this report, which have been admitted to transact business herein since July 15, 1913, the date of the corresponding volume of the last report of this department, are as follows: the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company of Hartford, Conn., admitted Sept. 26, 1913, and authorized to transact the business of accident, health, liability, fidelity, surety, burglary and plate-glass insurance on a capital of $750,000; the Prudential Casualty Company of Indianapolis, admitted Dec. 17, 1913, on a capital of $300,000, to transact accident, health, liability and plate-glass insurance. The first mutual liability company of another State to be admitted to this Commonwealth to transact workmen's compensation insurance — the Security Mutual Casualty Company of Chicago — was licensed Feb. 4, 1914.

The Title Guaranty and Surety Company, authorized to transact the business of fidelity and surety insurance, discontinued business in this Commonwealth in November, 1913.

In December, 1913, the American Fidelity Company reduced its capital about one-half, adding about $380,000 to the surplus, and on December 27 reinsured all but the fidelity and surety business in the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company.

The reinsurance of the entire business of the United States Health and Accident Company of Saginaw, Mich., which transacted an accident, health and liability business on a capital of $300,000, by the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Company, a Massachusetts corporation, was consummated May 11, 1914.

On June 30 the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Company received formal approval of the increase in its capital stock from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

In April, 1914, an examination of the Springfield Mutual Disability Company, an assessment accident and health insurance company located at Springfield, Mass., disclosed an insolvent condition and certain irregularities in the conduct of the business, which lead to an injunction May 12, 1914, and the appointment of Judd Dewey, 905 Tremont Building, Boston, receiver on May 15.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION FROM AN INSURANCE STANDPOINT.

We have now had two years of workmen's compensation in Massachusetts. At the outset there was very little in the way of pertinent experience to guide the companies or the insurance department or independent experts in the judging of rates for insurance covering this liability. As, however, the companies had the service to sell and the public were the buyers rates were naturally fixed by the sellers, and high enough so that they would not lose by the transactions, the same as the dealer in any line of goods makes a price that will give him a profit. It was soon seen that the rate was too high, and a horizontal cut of 25 per cent. was made. Other changes followed, all in the direction of reducing rates, until now they are at a level where there is probably no question of their sufficiency as a whole but rather one of adjustment; that is, the lowering of one rate that experience shows to be too high and the increase of another which is too low, the increases and the decreases about offsetting each other, and thus leaving the total costs of this insurance about the same as at present. This view is taken, it will be noted, not without some degree of caution. To this at least three uncertainties have contributed, namely, (1) the expense factor, (2) underestimates of outstanding liabilities, and (3) the work for accident prevention.

The Expense Factor.

There are certain expenses of an insurance company pertaining to workmen's compensation insurance which are specific and can easily be separated from its other expenses, although it may be transacting many other lines of insurance. Certain other expenses cannot be accurately separated. Examples of these are rents and officers' salaries, usually designated as "administration expenses" or "overhead expenses." The portion of such expenses belonging to workmen's compensation business has to be determined somewhat arbitrarily. To secure uniformity a prescribed rule must be applied to all companies. The Massachusetts rule is to take such a proportion of the total overhead expenses of a company as the total earned premiums in the workmen's compensation transactions bear to the total earned premiums of the company in all lines of its business for the period under consideration. By adding to the specific expenses of the company on account of workmen's compensation the results obtained by the above process for the overhead expenses, and reducing them to percentages, we have the result shown in the following table as the proportion of premiums used by each company for expenses for workmen's compensation:—

A large item of expenses of the stock companies is for the acquisition of business. The rate allowed for commissions on Massachusetts workmen's compensation business is 17½ per cent. to general agents, grading down to 10 per cent. to brokers; but as brokers place business through agents, a further allowance goes to the agents, so that the acquisition expense of this business is practically up to the limit of 17½ per cent.,—a limit fixed by the companies and so reported to the Insurance Commissioner when they filed their original rates with him in accordance with the requirements of the commissioner, in order that he might the better determine whether the rates fixed would be adequate, as the statute required.

So high an acquisition expense for a business of this character is indefensible. It ought to be reduced by agreement, or if that is not possible the State by a statute that would guard against subterfuges to avoid its operation should set such a limit to total expenses that the companies would be forced to reduce acquisition cost and all other excessive outlays. Let us see what this situation is: the provisions of the act practically make it compulsory for every employer to have this kind of insurance. But while the law sends the business to the companies, it goes by custom through agents, and 17½ per cent. of the premiums goes to the intermediaries. Out of every $100 of cost for workmen's compensation, $17.50 goes for connecting an employer with a company to persuade and help him to buy what he is virtually compelled to have. Furthermore, although the compulsory feature of the law makes it much easier to obtain this insurance than formerly to get orders for liability insurance which this replaced, still, as the cost of workmen's compensation insurance is much greater than that of liability insurance as formerly carried on, the number of dollars that the intermediary receives out of a given employer's premium affords a higher compensation to him than he received under the old liability system, which was a cold-blooded proposition, far removed from the modern conception that workmen's compensation statutes represent a purpose on the part of the public to share its substance to help out the injured workmen, and is not a scheme to tax the public to make more profits for anybody. That the cost of this business should be increased by an allowance which gives any one more dollars for less work than under the old system it replaced seems unwarranted. It is said that companies individually do not favor it, but competition in acquiring a large volume of business forces them to it as they can come to no understanding collectively to establish a reasonable limit.

The same considerations in a measure apply to other expenses than acquisition expenses. If the agent is receiving more dollars as commission on a given risk than formerly on account of the higher cost of the workmen's compensation insurance, so too is the company receiving more dollars for expenses where the expense ratio has not been reduced. In other words, with an expense ratio of 45 per cent. the company gets $225 out of a $500 premium for expenses. Double that premium, as was done in many cases under workmen's compensation, and the company receives $450 for expenses, with the same expense percentage. Even a 30 per cent. expense allowance would afford $300 on the new premium, which is $75 more than under old conditions with a 45 per cent. expense ratio.

In last year's report of the Insurance Commissioner it was said, and the belief is still present, that 30 per cent. is too liberal as an expense ratio for workmen's compensation insurance.

Underestimates of Outstanding Losses.

One of the things which an insurance department has to contend against is the proclivity of many insurance companies to underestimate their losses in making statements to the department. In some cases it has been so gross as to seem deliberate. This weakness was early discovered in the first reports upon workmen's compensation insurance. Revisions were called for, with a result that greatly increased the original figures for many of the companies. An effort was made by correspondence, and by calling representatives of the companies together for a conference, to impress upon them the importance of liberal figures for these returns, as they are an essential guide in making rates, and if underestimated the companies must suffer accordingly. The department feels that it has thus done its duty in making explanations and giving warnings, and believes that the later returns will show better results when a test is applied.

Accident Prevention.

The title of the Massachusetts workmen's compensation act is "An Act relative to payments to employees for personal injuries received in the course of their employment and to the prevention of such injuries." Although the act itself has few provisions relative to the prevention of injuries, nevertheless accident prevention is one of the most important phases of the modern movement for the assumption by the public of a part of the burden of the cost of injuries to workmen received during their hours of work for wages. Two points may be mentioned as standing out clearly in connection with accident prevention: first, that the law will not achieve its purpose unless accidents are reduced ; and second, that those employers who, through the adoption of safety devices, efficient superintendence and by other means, are successful in preventing accidents, should have their premiums reduced in accordance with the measure of their effort.

As to the first point, it may be noted that the insurance department is not primarily charged with duties pertaining to accident prevention, although, as a part of its functions in respect to furthering the principle of lower premiums for success in preventing accidents, it naturally has an opportunity to be of service in connection with measures for accident prevention. There are at least five other parties whose aid and co-operation would contribute to the highest success in preventing accidents, namely, (1) employers, (2) employees, (3) the Industrial Accident Board, (4) the Board of Labor and Industries, (5) the insurance companies.

That the value of safety work is becoming more generally recognized by both employers and employees is manifest, but there are various degrees of effort on the part of employers in their endeavor to protect their employees, as well as a difference in the attitude of the employees themselves. The awakening of interest in this matter is largely educational, and the enactment of the workmen's compensation law, and the public attention which is called thereto by the agitation and discussions which are constantly going on, will be of unquestionable value. The "safety first" propaganda is bound to bear good fruit.

That the insurance companies are engaged in accident prevention work is a matter for congratulation, even though it be a business proposition for them, and the funds so used come from the premiums paid by the employers, who, however, should bear in mind that the part of the premium so used by the company will reduce the number of accidents and result in a lower cost on account of injuries, and in the long run undoubtedly result in a lower rate for the insurance. At any rate, it is for the interest of employers to have the number of accidents reduced, although the cost of the insurance may not be lessened thereby. Increased efficiency and the elimination of suffering to the injured and their dependents would be a worthy compensation, even if no decrease in premiums should result, owing to the fact that a part of the premiums is used for accident prevention.

If the campaign for reducing the number of injuries results as we have a right to expect, and company expenses are kept within reasonable bounds, it is not in my view rash to expect that the total cost will be lower rather than higher for taking care of the benefits now in sight.

INDIVIDUAL RATES.

Since the enactment of the workmen's compensation law it has been evident to all who have considered the matter that justice demands that an individual plant which is conspicuously meritorious by reason of its physical condition should not pay as high a rate for its workmen's compensation coverage as another plant in the same industry where conditions are only average. In recognition of this view the Insurance Commissioner, as outlined in the fifty-seventh annual report, established an Inspection Bureau, which became operative soon after the enactment of the workmen's compensation act. Its duties were to inspect the plants of those employers for whom applications for special reduced rates were made by the insurance companies. Application blanks were prepared by the insurance department and furnished to the insurance companies, together with a blank designed to afford an opportunity for giving the experience of the applicant for a reduced rate in respect to accidents in his plant covering a series of years of its operation. The data called for on the form of experience statement blank, among other items include:—

(1) Statement of conditions affecting the buildings: (a) exits and fire escapes; (b) automatic sprinklers; (c) aisles; (d) stairways; (e) lighting.

(2) Statement of conditions affecting power control: (a) main power supply; (b) individual control.

(3) Statement of conditions affecting power transmission: (a) gears; (b) set screws, etc.; (c) belts; (d) shafts.

(4) Statement of conditions relating to elevators and hoistways.

(5) Statement of miscellaneous conditions relating to ladders, grinding and polishing wheels, electrical equipment, ammonia and gas equipment.

It will be seen from the above that a careful inspection by the insurance company is necessary in connection with every application for a special rate. The inspector for this department examines every risk for which the Insurance Commissioner is asked to approve a special rate, and makes report thereon. The commissioner then has information in hand covering the present condition of the plant and showing its record in respect to accidents in the past. Unless it appears from all the information gathered that a risk is above the average of its class, the reduction in rate for that risk is not approved, as to do so would be a discrimination against other similar plants. If the risk is shown to be an exceptionally good one, the application should be and is approved, and such employer receives, in the form of a lower rate, a reward to which he is entitled for his efforts. This form of rating is known as the "Special Rating System," and has been in force practically since the beginning of the workmen's compensation act, the first special rate having been approved on Aug. 26, 1912, or about two months after the act went into effect.

Another method of providing for certain allowances from the general rate is by means of the "Merit Discount System." Under this plan, which is of somewhat more recent development, and was first employed here by the Massachusetts Employees Insurance Association, certain percentage allowances have been approved for compliance with definite safety conditions. Except in a very few industries the maximum allowance is 10 per cent. of the rate. A discount is permitted for compliance with the standard safety conditions relating to fire hazard, drive hazard, elevators, boilers and engines. The insurance department exercises a general oversight and follows closely the allowances claimed, and inspects many of the plants to see whether the rules relating to the respective conditions are complied with and the proper discounts made.

Neither the "Special Rating System" nor the "Merit Discount System" has yet reached or even approached perfection. To the extent that these plans endeavor to discriminate legitimately between good and bad risks, they are a step in the right direction. Before a just and final solution of this problem of individual rating is reached, a considerable amount of patience and forbearance will have to be exercised. Workmen's compensation represents the establishment of a new principle in this country. It is only two years old in Massachusetts. While absolute justice in the matter of rates is the goal sought, the immediate achievement of this end is impracticable, owing partly to the lack of experience on which to base rates that will properly recognize a difference in the condition of the plants in which are carried on industries of a like character.

A SCHEDULE RATING SYSTEM.

Stock liability companies have for some time maintained a bureau, supported by their contributions, which is actively engaged in devising and applying a schedule system of rating to be used in the various States, which takes into account the difference in hazards in different plants of the same industry as well as in different industries. Under it a rate is established for the average or normal risk of each industry. This rate is based on all available information in respect to the hazard of the industry, as revealed by the records of experience relating thereto, to which is applied the judgment of experts in the making of rates. The rate for the average risk of a given industry having been determined, the rate for a specific risk of that industry is found by charging the rate for the average risk with the defects of the specific risk and crediting it with the merits of said risk, as they are shown to exist by an unprejudiced inspection. The resulting balance is the rate for the risk under consideration.

The establishment of this system means: first, that a schedule be prepared by experts in modern methods of accident prevention which will show what charge should be made for each defect which causes the risk to be poorer than the standard with which it is compared, and what credit shall be allowed for each point in respect to which it is a better risk than the standard; second, that every risk must be inspected by capable disinterested inspectors in order to ascertain the actual facts to be used in making the charges and allowing credits for establishing the rates. This method must be followed for each and every one of the thousands of risks in a given State. It is evident that the task of applying such an analytical standard in Massachusetts would be a work of great magnitude, and that its very basis is a correct rate for the average risk of the various classes.

It is undoubtedly a fact that inspections made by individual companies are not absolutely satisfactory for the reason that the competitive element is always present, and presumably to some extent influences the inspector's report and the underwriter's conclusions drawn therefrom. Individual company inspections mean a duplication of labor, since several companies under competition would repeat each other's work. Furthermore, the inspections are not uniform. Some are good, others indifferent. A central bureau, therefore, which would make inspections for all insurance carriers (both stock and mutual) without prejudice, absolutely free from the conscious or subconscious element of competition, would be in a position to produce results which would be uniform and free from many objections inherent in rating systems operated by individual companies independently of each other, and would bring about a standardization in accident prevention methods, as well as cut down the expenses of rate making. While such inspections would naturally be verified in some cases by representatives of the State for the purpose of determining the good faith of the bureau making the inspections, it would not seem to be necessary for the State to employ a sufficient staff to verify all such inspections, since the principle having been established and its operation placed in competent hands there should be no difficulty in accurately measuring each varying degree of hazard according to the principles of the schedule.

This system would not take into consideration a generally recognized factor in the establishment of individual rates, namely, the moral hazard of the risk. It should be possible, however, to work out a scheme for recognizing this factor. Such a scheme would probably give due weight to the actual experience which any given risk can show from its past record.

RATE SUPERVISION.

One of the chief duties of the Insurance Commissioner imposed by the workmen's compensation act is to consider all rates filed by the various insurance companies and to pass upon their adequacy, that is, the sufficiency thereof. To furnish a basis for this work the Insurance Commissioner has ample authority under the law to call upon the insurance companies at any time for such information as he desires in respect to all matters bearing upon the cost to the insured, the losses, the profits, and every detail pertaining thereto. Besides this he obtains through the regular reports of the companies filed with the insurance department annually and the department's examination of the companies, a comprehensive knowledge of the financial condition of the companies and their experience with each and every classification in the workmen's compensation manual. As all of the companies transacting such insurance, with the single exception of the Massachusetts Employees Insurance Association, write other forms of insurance, the separation of the expenses of administration applicable to compensation insurance and other details is necessary, and in order that there may be a uniform method adopted by all of the companies the department furnishes the companies suitable blanks on which to make their returns, and directs them as to how they are to be made.

Up to the present time there has been little cause for anxiety as to whether the rates filed by the companies were adequate. Several reductions from the original rates have taken place, and as far as can be judged from the experience data obtained up to date from the companies under oath the present rates are adequate as a whole to cover the additional benefits recommended in the inaugural message of His Excellency the Governor. In other words, the premiums on policies which terminated during the first eighteen months of the operation of the act, reduced to what they would have been on the basis of present rates, were ample for this purpose, after allowing a liberal margin — in view of the philanthropic purpose of this insurance — for expenses and profits.

The fact, however, that total premium collections are sufficient does not mean that rates in Massachusetts for all of the classifications are at their proper level. The returns indicate that in some of the larger classes of industry the present rate is not high enough, while in others there is a large margin of profit. It is possible, however, that in those classifications which show a high loss ratio on the experience at present available the losses are above normal, and the Insurance Commissioner has instituted a further investigation in order to ascertain whether the character of the injuries, or more recent experience, or the introduction of accident prevention devices, or other causes will modify the judgment which the data now in hand in some cases seem to suggest.

There are about 925 classifications of industries in Massachusetts, and among so many it is to be expected that in some cases the rate which was adopted without accumulated experience on which to base an opinion will be found either too low or too high. These, as experience accumulates, will have to be changed. It will never happen that a schedule of rates will be worked out which will prove so accurate that no modifications will be necessary. Changes in benefits, in shop conditions, in business activity, in administration under the act, in the development of safety measures, and many other causes, will serve to render revision of the rates imperative from time to time.

The Massachusetts practice of approving rates as to their adequacy has been adopted in other States since the passage of our statute. Among them is New York, and in the fifty-fifth annual report of the superintendent of insurance of that State, Hon. William T. Emmet thus analyzes and approves of the Massachusetts system:—

The reasonableness of the rates filed and charged is controlled by competition. The compelling character of this sequence should be observed: (1) the action of the insurance department in approving adequacy finds justification, in the first instance, in the primary duty of the department to guard the solvency of companies; (2) this, however, requires the formation of a combined experience; (3) the reasonableness of the rates follow if there is sufficient competition; and (4) the bad effects of competition in driving the rates too low are forestalled by the approval of adequacy by the insurance department. Thus so long as competitive conditions continue to exist at all in the business, the good which the public may derive from such conditions—namely, reasonable rates—is preserved, while the obvious danger to policy holders which is inherent to a state of unbridled competition—I mean unsafe insurance—is guarded against in the most effectual manner possible.

RULES TO PREVENT DISCRIMINATION.

In order to avoid discrimination in the use of classifications and rates all of the companies are required to observe certain definite rules in respect thereto. So far as concerns most of these rules the public has no particular interest, as they are matters of underwriting of a technical character. Certain questions have come to the Insurance Commissioner, however, in regard to the application of a few of the rules, and as a matter of public interest they may be briefly discussed here. A vital factor in the adequacy of any rate is that it shall apply to all of the pay roll of the assured. Employers of the Commonwealth should render every assistance to auditors of the insurance companies in their efforts to determine the exact pay roll, as this is one of the foundations on which the rates are based. In certain classifications, such as hotels, it is probable that board or other allowances are properly to be considered as a part of the wages of the employee, and a demand on the part of the insurance company's auditor for the inclusion thereof may be entirely in order.

The various policy contracts provide for an adjustment of the premium at the end of the policy term, based upon an audit, and provide for a refund of that part of the premium paid which is in excess of the amount determined as proper by the audit, or for the payment of such an amount of additional premium as may originally have been underestimated. This is an important part of the policy contract, and should be strictly adhered to by both parties.

Massachusetts workmen's compensation rates are industrial rates and not occupational. The basis of a rate is the business as a whole. Thus, whatever may be the rate for a street railway company, for example, it is applicable to all the employees having to do with the operation of the road. Obviously the employee who washes the car windows is performing much less hazardous work than the man engaged in the power station. The rate is too high for one duty and too low for the other, but both are a part of the average of the risk.

Clerical office employees, outside salesmen, collectors, drivers and chauffeurs, all of whose duties are distinctly individual, and who are not exposed to the operative hazard of the business, are proper exceptions to the general rule, and are individually rated. There are, however, many employees whose specific duties are essentially non-hazardous, but who nevertheless are engaged in the operation of the plant, and whose work, as distinguished from that of a purely clerical nature, contributes toward the finished product. As examples of this type of employee there may be cited the employees of a jewelry factory who do nothing but carding and wrapping, and laundry employees who mark the linen and wrap the bundles. These employees are properly placed in the regular or governing classification, and while the rate at first thought may appear high in their case, it is a part of the whole, and is offset by too low a rate for certain other employees whose duties are of a hazardous character.

COMPETITION IN COMPENSATION RATES.

In respect to competition between stock and mutual companies it should be borne in mind that generally such competition is on net cost. Mutual fire companies, for example, pay little attention to the rates of stock fire companies, but they do give much heed to whether their dividends will bring the net cost to the insured below what the stock companies charge for the same class of risks. So, too, the mutual rate for life insurance is considerably higher than stock rates. The almost universal rule is higher rates for participating insurance than for non-participating. As yet there seems to be no good reason to suppose that a mutual company, if it sees fit, cannot, following the procedure in other lines, make its initial workmen's compensation rates higher than those of stock companies. At first in Massachusetts it did not seem to be necessary, as such companies, having the advantage of the elimination of commissions to agents, an item of  $17\frac{1}{2}$  per cent., and of the profits of stock companies, were able on existing rates to pay out of their savings large dividends and still compete for business on the same initial rates as stock companies. It must be manifest, however, that when the rates are brought to the level where they will allow the stock company only a fair margin for commissions to agents, expenses and profit, the mutual company, if it uses the same rates as the stock company, will have a smaller margin out of which to keep up its dividends. Yet, manifestly, it cannot be expected that the Insurance Commissioner would consider it for the public interest to become a party to the maintenance of rates at a level for all companies that will allow a mutual to pay large dividends if the effect would be to give the well-managed stock companies an opportunity to make an unreasonable profit. The competition of mutuals is not of sufficient importance to be bought at such a price. On the contrary, the final and proper result of the competition will be that a level will be reached that will afford a fair margin of profit to the reasonably well-managed stock company, which keeps down its expenses, including commissions. If that level is not high enough to afford a mutual company the margin it desires for dividends it will of necessity charge more, and for attracting business depend upon lower expenses, no profits to earn for stockholders, co-operation of members in preventing injuries and any other advantage of the mutual system, to bring net cost below the stock rate.

If, for instance, the Insurance Commissioner should refuse to approve any rate that, besides taking care of the losses in full, did not afford an expense allowance of 50 per cent., which the returns show some companies have used, the result would be that the stock companies, whose expense ratio was only 30 per cent., would have a margin to the good of 20 per cent. of the premiums, which, on a large volume of business, if stated in percentage on the average volume of capital stock of such companies, would show a return which no company would care to defend. Or, illustrating the above statement by figures, the result would be about as follows: the company, we will suppose, had in 1913 in Massachusetts workmen's compensation premiums amounting to $1,000,000, its expense ratio was 30 per cent., its loss ratio 50 per cent., as assumed above. This would leave 20 per cent. for profits, or $200,000, which, applied to a capital of say $700,000, would make a pretty substantial return, to say nothing of the profits from other lines which may be carried on with that amount of capital.

This may be an extreme case, but it serves to illustrate the point that rates cannot be kept at an altitude that would suit the needs of the company with an unreasonable expense ratio. Nor, on the other hand, can they be brought so low as to afford just a fair profit to the best managed company, unless a plan be adopted that will give lower rates to the company whose expense ratio and expertness in underwriting would seem to warrant it than is approved for the company which is unable or unwilling to reach the lower level on expense and the higher in selection of risks; or a plan that will give the same rates for all, with a proviso that there shall be returned to the policy holder all profits in excess of what may be assumed to be reasonable, as some companies have contemplated doing.

But however these problems may be viewed for the purpose of settling upon proper rates, it is clear that there would be no excuse for keeping rates to a level for stock companies that would allow more than a reasonable margin for profit to the average company, even for the purpose of affording the mutuals a chance to return attractive dividends on stock rates.

Mutuals ought to be able to compete with stock companies so long as rates are not low enough to cause the well-managed stock company to lose money. To prevent the reduction of rates to that extent the Legislature included in the compensation law the section providing that the Insurance Commissioner should pass upon the adequacy of all rates, thereby preventing unfair competition and eliminating the dangers which might follow the use of too low rates. The public has no special interest in either the stock or the mutual system as such, but has an interest in maintaining a situation that will afford insurance now and in the future in continuously sound institutions, at the lowest rate compatible with such soundness and a fair margin of profit. The class, or the company, whether stock or mutual, that is unable to meet the conditions will in the nature of things leave the field, and the responsibility for it will rest on the management or ill fortune of the company.

SECURING PAYMENTS OF BENEFITS.

The desirability of devising a suitable method for making secure the payments to injured workmen and their dependents is a subject of importance, and the possible necessity for legislation along that line may properly be considered. As long as an insurance company of another State or country is licensed in this Commonwealth there is little doubt that it will meet its obligations to pay its losses in accordance with the terms of its contracts, and conveniently for the injured parties. If a compensation company retires from Massachusetts for any reason, and has obligations outstanding that require it to make weekly payments covering a long term of years, there is a possibility that it may become neglectful of those obligations and heedless of complaints, and put the payee to a lot of trouble. I am convinced that some plan should be adopted which would prevent annoyance and delay under such circumstances, and secure prompt payments, even though a company has retired from this Commonwealth. Such a plan might require each foreign insurance company doing a workmen's compensation business here to keep in the hands of trustees, for the sole purpose of the payments of workmen's compensation claims, an amount which will be sufficient to meet all outstanding losses.

STATISTICS OF COMPENSATION INSURANCE IN MASSACHUSETTS.

The following tables are compiled from returns made to the Massachusetts Insurance Department by the companies transacting a workmen's compensation insurance business in Massachusetts. They take into account only those policies which had ceased to be in force on December 31, 1913, and whose premiums by final audits and adjustments had been determined except that final audits were lacking in a few returns appearing in the first table, and include only losses pertaining to such policies. Hence premiums are compared with losses incurred on account of exactly the same policies, which is the only true basis for comparison.

The tables exhibit for the period of eighteen months on policies terminating during that period (1) the experience of each company with its workmen's compensation business in Massachusetts taken as a whole and (2) the experience of all of the companies combined with respect to each of the industrial classifications which showed a pay roll in excess of $500,000 for the eighteen months period. This amount of pay roll represents approximately 1,000 employees for one year, and the 134 classifications tabulated represent 88 per cent. of the total pay roll reported, leaving only 12 per cent. for the other 800 classifications.

Although the combined figures for all the classifications and all companies show that the receipts during that period afforded a large margin over losses, it must be taken into account that present rates are not as high as the average for that period and on October 1 next a new scale of benefits is prescribed by statute, so that in the near future the question will be whether the present lower rates will be reasonable to meet the higher benefits. As to the business taken as a whole, that is, as if it were a single classification, the insurance department believes that the income on present rates will be sufficient to pay losses on the increased benefit scale and provide for reasonable expenses and profits.

As to classifications separately not so much can be said. Few if any of them show an experience large enough to warrant any positive deductions as to rates and this should be borne in mind by all who are looking for light from these returns. The experience of another year may overthrow any conclusions as to most of the classes. The figures, however, have a certain interest and are presented with the above caution for what they may be worth, and also as being the best record of the financial experience of companies with workmen's compensation business in this country. They have been carefully audited and compiled from sworn returns made by the companies and are believed to be worthy of confidence. The only fault is that the experience is not extended enough in the various classes to warrant conclusions that further experience may not radically change.

NEW TABLE FOR MISCELLANEOUS COMPANIES.

A table has been prepared for this report from the statements of the miscellaneous companies to show separately by classes the earned premiums and losses incurred during the year in the several kinds of business which the companies transacted, the commissions and allowances to agents and branch offices in each class, and also by classes the net premiums written and losses paid in this Commonwealth. It is believed that the loss ratios of the several companies in the different classes of business and the cost of acquiring the business, as indicated by the allowances to agents and managers, will be of general interest. The preparation of the table presented a few difficulties, the nature of which is indicated by the notes included with the table. It seems desirable to call attention particularly to the method adopted for the construction of the figures entered in the column "Acquisition Cost." To the commissions in each class, which are returned separately by the companies in the annual statements, has been added the percentage of the disbursement item in the annual statements, "Salaries, traveling and all other expenses of agents not paid by commissions," that the earned premiums in each class bear to the total earned premiums of the company. This amount is believed to show an approximately correct acquisition cost and the percentage of net premiums, which is also shown, is believed to give a general idea of the relative cost of putting the business on the books of the companies.

Respectfully submitted,

Frank H. Hardison
Insurance Commissioner.

CHAPTER 246.

AN ACT TO UNIFY THE MORTALITY CLAIMS OF THE SAVINGS AND INSURANCE BANKS.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

SECTION 1. Section fifteen of chapter five hundred and sixty-one of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and seven is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the words:—The state actuary shall for each year ending October thirty-first determine the ratio of actual to expected mortality claims for all of the savings and insurance banks combined, and shall determine a similar ratio for each of the savings and insurance banks separately. Both calculations shall be based upon the mortality tables and the rate of interest used by the banks in the calculation of the premiums, or upon such other bases as shall be approved by the insurance commissioner. If the calculation of the ratio pertaining to any savings and insurance bank shall show that the actual mortality experienced is less than the mortality expected to be experienced by all of the banks combined, the state actuary shall send to such bank a certificate setting forth the amount of such difference, and thereupon such bank shall send to the General Insurance Guaranty Fund in cash the amount of such certificate. The state actuary shall also furnish to the trustees of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund a certificate in respect to any savings and insurance bank in which the ratio of the actual to the expected mortality has exceeded the ratio of the actual to the expected mortality for all of the banks combined, and thereupon the trustees of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund shall pay to such bank the amount of such excess as evidenced by such certificate.

In determining the net profits, as defined in section twenty-one, to be distributed to the holders of the policies and annuity contracts each year for each savings and insurance bank, the state actuary shall consider as a mortality factor the ratio of the actual to the expected mortality for all of the savings and insurance banks combined,—so as to read as follows:—Section 15. The trustees of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund shall, with the approval of the governor and council, appoint, and may with their consent remove, an insurance actuary to be called state actuary, with such salary or compensation to be paid by the commonwealth as the trustees shall, with the approval of the governor and council, from time to time determine. The trustees may also appoint such clerks and assistants to the state actuary as the public business in his charge may require.

The state actuary, with the advice of the attorney-general as to matters of legal form, shall prepare standard forms of life insurance policies and life annuity contracts, including a whole life policy, a limited payment life policy, a limited term policy, an endowment policy, an annuity contract, and a combination of life insurance policy and deferred annuity contract, and such others, if any, as may from time to time, in the opinion of the insurance commissioner, be desirable. Every policy and annuity contract shall provide that the issuing bank may make any payment thereunder by placing to the credit of the account of the registered beneficiary in the savings department the amount payable. Such standard forms shall be used as the uniform and exclusive forms of policies by all savings and insurance banks. He shall also prepare the form of blanks for applications for life insurance policies and life annuity contracts and for proof of loss, and all other forms which may be necessary for the efficient prosecution of the business, also books of record and of account, and all schedules and all reports not otherwise provided for which may be required in the conduct of the business, and these shall be used as the uniform and exclusive form of blanks, books, schedules, and reports in the insurance department of all savings and insurance banks. He shall also, consistently with the statutes governing domestic legal reserve life insurance companies, determine and prepare the table of premium rates for all kinds of life insurance policies, and the purchase rates for annuities, and the amount of the membership fee, the surrender and any proof of death charges, and the premium rates for reinsurance. The rates, fees, and charges so fixed shall be adopted as the uniform and exclusive premiums, annuity rates, the initiation, the surrender, and the proof of death charges. He shall also determine and prepare tables showing the amounts which may be loaned on insurance policies, and the reinsurance rates to be charged by all savings and insurance banks, and the guaranty charges to be made by the General Insurance Guaranty Fund, but the loan value shall in no event exceed the reserve on any policy. He shall also prepare or procure tables for computing the legal reserve to be held under insurance and annuity contracts, and for this purpose may, with the approval of the insurance commissioner, adopt a table of mortality which may be deemed more suitable than the American experience table for policies of insurance of the character and amounts to which the risks of the banks are limited; and shall in all other respects, except as herein otherwise stated, perform the duties of insurance actuary for all the savings and insurance banks and the General Insurance Guaranty Fund. The ordinary actuarial routine work of the banks, including an annual and other valuations of their policies, shall be performed by their clerks, guided and assisted, so far as may be necessary, by the advice and instruction of the state actuary; but an annual valuation of all the policies of the banks and of the condition of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund as of October thirty-first of each year shall be made in the office of the state actuary under his direction, and from schedules of policy data on blanks furnished by him and prepared by the banks in accordance with his instructions. The state actuary shall also furnish to the savings and insurance banks and to the General Insurance Guaranty Fund all blanks for policies, applications, schedules, and other papers and books which the state actuary is required to prepare, as herein provided. The state actuary shall for each year ending October thirty-first determine the ratio of actual to expected mortality claims for all of the savings and insurance banks combined, and shall determine a similar ratio for each of the savings and insurance banks separately. Both calculations shall be based upon the mortality tables and the rate of interest used by the banks in the calculation of the premiums, or upon such other bases as shall be approved by the insurance commissioner. If the calculation of the ratio pertaining to any savings and insurance bank shall show that the actual mortality experienced is less than the mortality expected to be experienced by all of the banks combined, the state actuary shall send to such bank a certificate setting forth the amount of such difference, and thereupon such bank shall send to the General Insurance Guaranty Fund in cash the amount of such certificate. The state actuary shall also furnish to the trustees of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund a certificate in respect to any savings and insurance bank in which the ratio of the actual to the expected mortality has exceeded the ratio of the actual to the expected mortality for all of the banks combined, and thereupon the trustees of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund shall pay to such bank the amount of such excess as evidenced by such certificate.

In determining the net profits, as defined in section twenty-one, to be distributed to the holders of the policies and annuity contracts each year for each savings and insurance bank, the state actuary shall consider as a mortality factor the ratio of the actual to the expected mortality for all of the savings and insurance banks combined.

SECTION 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage. [Approved March 26, 1914.]

AN ACT TO REGULATE THE PAYMENT OF LOSSES UNDER CONTRACTS FOR CASUALTY INSURANCE.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

SECTION 1. In respect to every contract of insurance made between an insurance company and any person, firm or corporation, by which such person, firm or corporation is insured against loss or damage on account of the bodily injury or death by accident of any person, for which loss or damage such person, firm or corporation is responsible, whenever a loss occurs on account of a casualty covered by such contract of insurance, the liability of the insurance company shall become absolute, and the payment of said loss shall not depend upon the satisfaction by the assured of a final judgment against him for loss, or damage, or death, occasioned by said casualty. No such contract of insurance shall be cancelled or annulled by any agreement between the insurance company and the assured after the said assured has become responsible for such loss or damage, and any such cancellation or annulment shall be void.

SECTION 2. Upon the recovery of a final judgment against any person, firm or corporation by any person, including administrators or executors, for loss or damage on account of bodily injury or death, if the defendant in such action was insured against said loss or damage at the time when the right of action arose, the judgment creditor shall be entitled to have the insurance money, provided for in the contract of insurance between the insurance company and the defendant, applied to the satisfaction of the judgment, and if the judgment is not satisfied within thirty days after the date when it is rendered, the judgment creditor may proceed in equity against the defendant and the insurance company to reach and apply the insurance money to the satisfaction of the judgment. [Approved May 2, 1914.]

AN ACT RELATIVE TO LOANS AND SURRENDER VALUES AND THE AMORTIZATION OF BONDS OF LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

SECTION 1. All bonds or other evidences of debt having a fixed term and rate held by a life insurance company authorized to do business in this commonwealth may, if amply secured and not in default as to principal or interest, be valued as follows:— If purchased at par, at the par value; if purchased above or below par, on the basis of the purchase price adjusted so as to bring the value to par at maturity and so as to yield meantime the effective rate of interest at which the purchase was made: provided, that the purchase price shall in no case be taken at a higher figure than the actual market value at the time of purchase; and provided, further, that the insurance commissioner shall have full discretion in determining the method of calculating values according to the foregoing rule, and the values found by him in accordance with such method shall be final and binding: provided, also, that any such corporation may return such bonds or other evidence of debt at their market value or their book value, but in no event at an aggregate value exceeding the aggregate of the values calculated according to the foregoing rule.

SECTION 2. So much of any act as is inconsistent herewith is hereby repealed.

SECTION 3. This act shall take effect on the first day of July, nineteen hundred and fourteen.

(The foregoing was laid before the governor on the fifth day of May, 1914, and after five days it had "the force of a law," as prescribed by the constitution, as it was not returned by him with his objections thereto within that time.)

AN ACT RELATIVE TO THE ORGANIZATION AND POWERS OF CERTAIN MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

SECTION 1. Mutual insurance companies may be organized for the following purposes, to wit:—to insure against loss or damage to motor vehicles, other than motor boats, their fittings and contents, whether such vehicles are being operated or not and wherever the same may be, resulting from accident, collision, theft and any of the perils usually insured against by marine insurance, including inland navigation and transportation. Every such company shall be organized in the manner and shall be subject to the laws and regulations specified in chapter five hundred and seventy-six of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and seven, and in the amendments thereof, relating to mutual fire insurance companies, so far as the same may be applicable.

SECTION 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage. [Approved June 8, 1914.]

CHAPTER 708.

AN ACT RELATIVE TO PAYMENTS TO EMPLOYEES FOR PERSONAL INJURIES RECEIVED IN THE COURSE OF THEIR EMPLOYMENT.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

SECTION 1. Chapter seven hundred and fifty-one of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and eleven is hereby amended by striking out section five of Part II and inserting in place thereof the following new section:—Section 5. During the first two weeks after the injury, and, if the employee is not immediately incapacitated thereby from earning full wages then from the time of such incapacity, and in unusual cases, in the discretion of the board, for a longer period, the association shall furnish reasonable medical and hospital services, and medicines, when they are needed. Where, in a case of emergency or for other justifiable cause, a physician other than the one provided by the association is called in to treat the injured employee, the reasonable cost of his services shall be paid by the association, subject to the approval of the industrial accident board. Such approval shall be granted only if the board finds that there was such justifiable cause and that the charge for the services is reasonable.

SECTION 2. Said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one is hereby further amended by striking out section six of Part II and inserting in place thereof the following new section:—Section 6. If death results from the injury, the association shall pay the dependents of the employee, wholly dependent upon his earnings for support at the time of the injury, a weekly payment equal to sixty-six and two thirds per cent of his average weekly wages, but not more than ten dollars nor less than four dollars a week for a period of five hundred weeks from the date of the injury; but in no case shall the amount be more than four thousand dollars. If the employee leaves dependents only partially dependent upon his earnings for support at the time of his injury, the association shall pay such dependents a weekly compensation equal to the same proportion of the weekly payments for the benefit of persons wholly dependent as the amount contributed by the employee to such partial dependents bears to the annual earnings of the deceased at the time of his injury. When weekly payments have been made to an injured employee before his death, the compensation to dependents shall begin from the date of the last of such payments, but shall not continue more than five hundred weeks from the date of the injury.

SECTION 3. Said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one is hereby further amended by striking out section seven of Part II and inserting in place thereof the following new section:—Section 7. The following persons shall be conclusively presumed to be wholly dependent for support upon a deceased employee:—

(a) A wife upon a husband with whom she lives at the time of his death, or from whom, at the time of his death, the industrial accident board shall find the wife was living apart for justifiable cause or because he had deserted her. The findings of the board upon the questions of such justifiable cause and desertion shall be final.

(b) A husband upon a wife with whom he lives at the time of her death.

(c) A child or children under the age of eighteen years, (or over said age, but physically or mentally incapacitated from earning,) upon the parent with whom he is or they are living at the time of the death of such parent, there being no surviving dependent parent: provided, that in the event of the death of an employee who has at the time of his death a living child or children by a former wife or husband, under the age of eighteen years, (or over said age, but physically or mentally incapacitated from earning,) said child or children shall be conclusively presumed to be wholly dependent for support upon such deceased employee, and the death benefit shall be divided between the surviving wife or husband and all the children of the deceased employee in equal shares, the surviving wife or husband taking the same share as a child. The total sum due the surviving wife or husband and her or his own children shall be paid directly to the wife or husband for her or his own use and for the benefit of her or his own children, and the sums due to the children by the former wife or husband of the deceased employee shall be paid to their guardians or legal representatives for the benefit of such children.

In all other cases questions of dependency, in whole or in part, shall be determined in accordance with the fact, as the fact may be at the time of the injury; and in such other cases, if there is more than one person wholly dependent, the death benefit shall be divided equally among them, and persons partly dependent, if any, shall receive no part thereof, and if there is no one wholly dependent and more than one person partly dependent, the death benefit shall be divided among them according to the relative extent of their dependency.

SECTION 4. Section nine of Part II of said chapter is hereby amended by striking out the words "one half", in the third line, and inserting in place thereof the words:—sixty-six and two thirds per cent of,— and by striking out the word "three", in the seventh line, and inserting in place thereof the word:—four,— so as to read as follows:— Section 9. While the incapacity for work resulting from the injury is total, the association shall pay the injured employee a weekly compensation equal to sixty-six and two thirds per cent of his average weekly wages, but not more than ten dollars nor less than four dollars a week; and in no case shall the period covered by such compensation be greater than five hundred weeks, nor the amount more than four thousand dollars.

SECTION 5. Said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one is hereby further amended by striking out section ten of Part II and inserting in place thereof the following new section:— Section 10. While the incapacity for work resulting from the injury is partial, the association shall pay the injured employee a weekly compensation equal to sixty-six and two thirds per cent of the difference between his average weekly wages before the injury and the average weekly wages which he is able to earn thereafter, but not more than ten dollars a week; and in no case shall the period covered by such compensation be greater than five hundred weeks from the date of the injury, nor the amount more than four thousand dollars.

SECTION 6. Section eleven, of Part II of said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one, as amended by section two of chapter five hundred and seventy-one of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and twelve, by section one of chapter four hundred and forty-five of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and thirteen and by section one of chapter six hundred and ninety-six of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and thirteen, is hereby further amended by striking out said section and inserting in place thereof the following new section:—Section 11. In case of the following specified injuries the amounts hereinafter named shall be paid in addition to all other compensation:—

(a) For the loss by severance of both hands at or above the wrist, or both feet at or above the ankle, or the loss of one hand and one foot, or the reduction to one tenth of normal vision in both eyes with glasses, sixty-six and two thirds per cent of the average weekly wages of the injured person, but not more than ten dollars nor less than four dollars a week, for a period of one hundred weeks.

(b) For the loss by severance of either hand, at or above the wrist, of either foot at or above the ankle, or the reduction to one tenth of normal vision in either eye with glasses, sixty-six and two thirds per cent of the average weekly wages of the injured person, for each hand or foot so severed, but not more than ten dollars nor less than four dollars a week for a period of fifty weeks.

(c) For the loss by severance at or above the second joint of two or more fingers, including thumbs, of the same hand, or of two or more toes of the same foot, sixty-six and two thirds per cent of the average weekly wages of the injured person, but not more than ten dollars nor less than four dollars a week, for a period of twenty-five weeks for each hand or foot so injured.

(d) For the loss by severance of at least one phalange of a finger, thumb or toe, sixty-six and two thirds per cent of the average weekly wages of the injured person, but not more than ten dollars nor less than four dollars a week, for a period of twelve weeks for each hand or foot so injured.

(e) The additional amounts provided for in this section in case of the loss of a hand, foot, thumb, finger, toe, or phalange, shall also be paid for the number of weeks above specified in case the injury is such that the hand, foot, thumb, finger, toe or phalange is not lost but so injured as to be permanently incapable of use.

SECTION 7. Section thirteen of Part II of said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the words:—When the appointment of a legal representative of a deceased employee, otherwise necessary, is required for carrying out the provisions of this act, the association shall furnish or pay for all legal services rendered in connection with the appointment of such legal representative, or in connection with any of his duties, and shall pay the necessary disbursements for such appointment, the necessary expenses of such legal representative, and reasonable compensation to him for time necessarily spent in carrying out said provisions. All of said payments shall be in addition to all sums paid for compensation,—so as to read as follows:—Section 13. The compensation payable under this act in case of the death of the injured employee shall be paid to his legal representative; or, if he has no legal representative to his dependents; or, if he leaves no dependents, to the persons to whom payment of the expenses for the last sickness and burial are due. If the payment is made to the legal representative of the deceased employee, it shall be paid by him to the dependents or other persons entitled thereto under this act. When the appointment of a legal representative of a deceased employee, not otherwise necessary, is required for carrying out the provisions of this act, the association shall furnish or pay for all legal services rendered in connection with the appointment of such legal representative, or in connection with any of his duties, and shall pay the necessary disbursements for such appointment, the necessary expenses of such legal representative, and reasonable compensation to him for time necessarily spent in carrying out said provisions. All of said payments shall be in addition to all sums paid for compensation.

SECTION 8. Said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one is hereby further amended by striking out section twenty-two of Part II and inserting in place thereof the following new section:—Section 22. Whenever any weekly payment has been continued for not less than six months, the liability therefor may, in unusual cases where the parties agree and the board deems it to be for the best interest of the employee or his dependents, be redeemed by the payment, in whole or in part, by the association of a lump sum which shall be fixed by the board, but in no case to exceed the amount provided by this act. The board may, however, in its discretion at any time in the case of a minor who has received permanently disabling injuries, either partial or total, provide that he be compensated in whole or in part, by the payment of a lump sum, the amount of which shall be fixed by the board, but in no case to exceed the amount provided by this act.

SECTION 9. Section five of Part III of said chapter, as amended by section ten of chapter five hundred and seventy-one of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and twelve, is hereby further amended by inserting after the word “act”, in the third line, the words:—or if they have reached such an agreement, which has been signed and filed in accordance with the provisions of this act, and compensation has been paid or is due in accordance therewith and the parties thereto then disagree as to the continuance of any weekly payments under such agreement,—so as to read as follows:—Section 5. If the association and the injured employee fail to reach an agreement in regard to compensation under this act, or if they have reached such an agreement, which has been signed and filed in accordance with the provisions of this act, and compensation has been paid or is due in accordance therewith and the parties thereto then disagree as to the continuance of any weekly payments under such agreement, either party may notify the industrial accident board who shall thereupon call for the formation of a committee of arbitration. The committee of arbitration shall consist of three members, one of whom shall be a member of the industrial accident board, and shall act as chairman. The other two members shall be named, respectively, by the two parties. If the subscriber has appeared under the provisions of Part II, section three, the member named by the association shall be subject to his approval. If a vacancy occurs it shall be filled by the party whose representative is unable to act.

The arbitrators appointed by the parties shall be sworn by the chairman as follows: I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully perform my duty as arbitrator and will not be influenced in my decision by any feeling of friendship or partiality toward either party. So help me God.

SECTION 10. Section eight of Part III of said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one is hereby amended by adding at the end of said section the words:— and the association shall reimburse the board for the amount so paid,— so as to read as follows:— Section 8. The industrial accident board or any member thereof may appoint a duly qualified impartial physician to examine the injured employee and to report. The fee for this service shall be five dollars and travelling expenses, but the board may allow additional reasonable amounts in extraordinary cases, and the association shall reimburse the board for the amount so paid.

SECTION 11. Said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one is hereby further amended by striking out section twelve of Part III and inserting in place thereof the following new section:— Section 12. Any weekly payment under this act may be reviewed by the industrial accident board, and on such review the board may, in accordance with the evidence and subject to the provisions of this act, issue any order which it deems advisable.

SECTION 12. Said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one is hereby further amended by striking out section thirteen of Part III and inserting in place thereof the following new section:— Section 13. Fees of attorneys and physicians and charges of hospitals for services under this act shall be subject to the approval of the industrial accident board. If the association and any physician or hospital, or the employee and any attorney, fail to reach an agreement as to the amount to be paid for such services, either party may notify the board, which may thereupon call for the formation of a committee of arbitration in accordance with the provisions of this act, and all proceedings thereunder shall be in accordance with the provisions of this act.

SECTION 13. Section two of Part V of said chapter, as amended by section one of chapter five hundred and sixty-eight of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and thirteen, is hereby further amended by striking out the third paragraph of said section and inserting in place thereof the following:— “Employee” shall include every person in the service of another under any contract of hire, express or implied, oral or written, except masters of and seamen on vessels engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, and except one whose employment is not in the usual course of the trade, business, profession or occupation of his employer. Any reference to an employee who has been injured shall, when the employee is dead, also include his legal representatives, dependents and other persons to whom compensation may be payable.

SECTION 14. Part II of said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one is hereby further amended by adding thereto a new section, to be numbered twenty-four, as follows:— Section 24. Whenever any question involving the compensation of an injured employee, or his dependents, is appealed to the supreme judicial court, and the decision rendered is in favor of the employee or his dependents, interest to the date of payment shall be paid by the association on all sums due as compensation to such employee or dependents.

SECTION 15. Part V of said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one is hereby further amended by adding at the end thereof three new sections, to be numbered seven, eight and nine, as follows:—Section 7. The association and all insurance companies insuring employees under the provisions of this act shall, at the request of the industrial accident board, furnish to said board in writing any information required in connection with the administration by said board of said act, including any statistical facts and figures and the names of all employers insured by them. Section 8. There may be established and maintained under the care and direction of the industrial accident board not more than four branch offices in such cities as may be selected by said board, from time to time, after proper investigation, for the purpose of the better adjustment of disputed cases and for the better information of all parties as to their rights under this act. Said board is hereby authorized to provide such offices with useful rooms, furniture and equipment required for the transaction of the business authorized by this act, also to appoint such officers, agents, clerks and assistants as are necessary to discharge in connection with such offices the duties required by this act, under the direction of said industrial accident board. Section 9. The industrial accident board may appoint a medical adviser who shall be a duly qualified physician. The board shall prescribe the duties of said medical adviser. His compensation shall be fixed by said board, subject to the approval of the governor and council, and shall not exceed the sum of four thousand dollars a year.

SECTION 16. All insurance rates under said chapter seven hundred and fifty-one and acts in amendment thereof and in addition thereto, now on file and approved by the insurance commissioner, shall continue to apply to the several classifications after the taking effect of the provisions of this act, unless the insurance commissioner withdraws approval in accordance with the provisions of chapter six hundred and sixty-six of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and twelve.

SECTION 17. Sections one, two, four, five, six, seven, eight, thirteen and fourteen of this act shall take effect on the first day of October next, except that all policies of insurance under chapter seven hundred and fifty-one of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and eleven and acts in amendment thereof and in addition thereto, written after the passage of this act, shall provide for the payment after said first day of October of the additional benefits provided by said sections, and in all other respects this act shall take effect upon its passage. [Approved June 25, 1914.]

* The company's charter authorizes it to do not only an insurance business, but also to act as administrator, executor, trustee, etc., and thus to transact a trust business of that character. It also establishes the relations between the two branches, whose accounts are kept distinct and separate. As its consideration for the benefits of the union, the insurance branch pays the expenses of the business.

Admitted assets,* . . . . .	$4,443,209 57

* These assets include deposits in this country amounting to $24,750, which the company has made for the protection of certain policy holders. Liabilities of $23,458.89 have accrued against these deposits, which are included in the total liabilities of the company. The excess of these deposits over corresponding liabilities is $1,291.11, which is included in the surplus and is subject to a lien under the conditions of the special deposit, which, in certain contingencies, would, it should be noted, remove said excess from the funds available to pay the claims of general policy holders.

* These assets include deposits in this country amounting to $98,100, which the company has made for the protection of certain policy holders. Liabilities of $52,756.81 have accrued against these deposits, which are included in the total liabilities of the company. The excess of these deposits over corresponding liabilities is $45,343.19, which is included in the surplus and is subject to a lien under the conditions of the special deposit, which, in certain contingencies, would, it should be noted, remove said excess from the funds available to pay the claims of general policy holders.

* These assets include deposits in this country amounting to $192,530, which the company has made for the protection of certain policy holders. Liabilities have accrued against these deposits, which are included in the total liabilities of the company. The excess of these deposits over corresponding liabilities is $64,215.52, which is included in the surplus and is subject to a lien under the conditions of the special deposit, which, in certain contingencies, would, it should be noted, remove said excess from the funds available to pay the claims of general policy holders.

* These assets include deposits in this country amounting to $579,140, which the company has made for the protection of certain policy holders. Liabilities have accrued against these deposits, which are included in the total liabilities of the company. The excess of these deposits over corresponding liabilities is $357,274.56, which is included in the surplus and is subject to a lien under the conditions of the special deposit, which, in certain contingencies, would, it should be noted, remove said excess from the funds available to pay the claims of general policy holders.

* These assets include deposits in this country amounting to $534,175, which the company has made for the protection of certain policy holders. Liabilities have accrued against these deposits, which are included in the total liabilities of the company. The excess of these deposits over corresponding liabilities is $82,691.97, which is included in the surplus and is subject to a lien under the conditions of the special deposit, which, in certain contingencies, would, it should be noted, remove said excess from the funds available to pay the claims of general policy holders.

* These assets include deposits in this country amounting to $36,050, which the company has made for the protection of certain policy holders. Liabilities of $16,002.44 have accrued against these deposits, which are included in the total liabilities of the company. The excess of these deposits over corresponding liabilities is $20,047.56, which is included in the surplus and is subject to a lien under the conditions of the special deposit, which, in certain contingencies, would, it should be noted, remove said excess from the funds available to pay the claims of general policy holders.

* These assets include deposits in this country amounting to $378,645, which the company has made for the protection of certain policy holders. Liabilities have accrued against these deposits, which are included in the total liabilities of the company. The excess of these deposits over corresponding liabilities is $54,926.51, which is included in the surplus and is subject to a lien under the conditions of the special deposit, which, in certain contingencies, would, it should be noted, remove said excess from the funds available to pay the claims of general policy holders.

* These assets include deposits in this country amounting to $126,350, which the company has made for the protection of certain policy holders. Liabilities have accrued against these deposits, which are included in the total liabilities of the company. The excess of these deposits over corresponding liabilities is $96,152.36, which is included in the surplus and is subject to a lien under the conditions of the special deposit, which, in certain contingencies, would, it should be noted, remove said excess from the funds available to pay the claims of general policy holders.

* These assets include deposits in this country amounting to $503,040, which the company has made for the protection of certain policy holders. Liabilities have accrued against these deposits, which are included in the total liabilities of the company. The excess of these deposits over corresponding liabilities is $120,465.62, which is included in the surplus and is subject to a lien under the conditions of the special deposit, which, in certain contingencies, would, it should be noted, remove said excess from the funds available to pay the claims of general policy holders.

* These assets include deposits in this country amounting to $130,750, which the company has made for the protection of certain policy holders. Liabilities of $59,129.85 have accrued against these deposits, which are included in the total liabilities of the company. The excess of these deposits over corresponding liabilities is $71,620.15, which is included in the surplus and is subject to a lien under the conditions of the special deposit, which, in certain contingencies, would, it should be noted, remove said excess from the funds available to pay the claims of general policy holders.

* These assets include deposits in this country amounting to $584,564, which the company has made for the protection of certain policy holders. Liabilities have accrued against these deposits, which are included in the total liabilities of the company. The excess of these deposits over corresponding liabilities is $69,790.30, which is included in the surplus and is subject to a lien under the conditions of the special deposit, which, in certain contingencies, would, it should be noted, remove said excess from the funds available to pay the claims of general policy holders.

REPORTS ON RECEIVERSHIPS OF FRATERNAL AND ASSESSMENT CORPORATIONS.

Home Circle. — J. Butler Studley, 161 Devonshire Street, Boston, receiver, appointed June 16, 1911. A report from the receiver states that various suits have been begun against the Golden Cross based on Home Circle certificates, and there have been several decisions against the Golden Cross. The leading decision is that of Timberlake against the United Order of the Golden Cross, 208 Mass. 411, in which it was held that notwithstanding that the Tennessee courts had declared the merger illegal, the Golden Cross was nevertheless liable under the circumstances of that case on a Home Circle certificate. What the extent of the liability of the Golden Cross on such certificates will be, or when the liability will be finally determined, the receiver is not able to state. Some of such suits are still pending. The receiver reports total receipts from July 1, 1913, of $1,267.28; expenditures of $180.46, leaving a balance on deposit of $1,086.82.

Fraternal Accident Association. — George Hoague, 87 Milk Street, Boston, receiver; appointed October 18, 1912. The receiver reports that on November 5, 1913, his final account was allowed by the court and he was discharged. The assets in his hands were sufficient to pay not only all claims in full, but there was distributed to each of the four hundred and twenty members, the sum of $3.75 after the payment of these claims which amounted to about $2,500 and the expenses of the receivership.

Springfield Mutual Disability Company. — Judd Dewey, 905 Tremont Building, Boston, receiver; appointed May 15, 1914.

United Hebrews of America. — Eleazer Freedman, Boston, temporary receiver; appointed April 18, 1914; discharged June 30, 1914, after reorganization of the society.
